NEW BOOKS.

THE FRONTIER OF CONTROL. A study in British Workshop Politics, by C. L. GOODRICH, is an important new book dealing with one of the leading questions of the day: How much control over industry should and do the rank and file of those who work in it, and their organisations, exercise?

It is an impartial survey analysing industrial relationships, rules enforced by employers' associations, trade unions, &c., and will materially help the formation of reasonable opinion on this large and burning issue. Price 7s. 6d. net. G. Bell & Sons.

ANTIQUES GENUINE AND SPURIOUS is the title of an important new book by FREDERICK LITCHFIELD, author of "An Illustrated History of Furniture," &c., just published. 25s. net.

Truth says:—"It is decidedly a book that no collector of such things should be without. . . . All those who are interested in antiques will be grateful to Mr. Litchfield for having embodied such an amount of valuable information out of his own great experience for their benefit."

Old Porcelain, Enamels, Bronzes, and Furniture are largely dealt with in Mr. LITCHFIELD'S BOOK, which, as The Manchester Guardian says, "will be used again and again until the reader knows his way thoroughly among its pages. . . . Whatever the subject treated, there is ample information culled from what may be called dealers' lore. . . . The illustrations are both numerous and excellent." G. Bell & Sons.

MISS ALICE GREENWOOD'S SELECTION FROM PASTON LETTERS is, says the Spectator, "highly interesting and often amusing." "The book is like a mirror of Shalot," says the Liverpool Courier, "wherein we can see Knight and Burgher, Squire and Plain Man, Robber and Messenger, going up and down the pleasant land of England on the business of the common day, five hundred years ago." Price 15s. net. G. Bell & Sons.

DUAL EVOLUTION. Being outlines in a theory which is thought to reconcile Idealism and Realism from the view-point of Humanism. By J. O'CALLAGHAN. "A very interesting example of the modern reintegration of philosophy . . . clearly and soundly reasoned."—Glasgow Herald. "Supports its main thesis by many interesting intellectual distinctions and contentions touching the association of the material progressions with the progressions of centres of initiating potentiality."—Scotsman. "The book is suggestive, the work of an interesting mind familiar with the data of physical science and possessing an aptitude for the description of psychological states."—Saturday Westminster. Price 12s. net. G. Bell & Sons.

TROLLOPE'S BARSETSHIRE NOVELS. "The Warden"; "Barsetshire Towers"; "Dr. Thorne"; "Framley Parsonage"; "The Small House at Allington" (2 vols.); "The Last Chronicle of Barset" (2 vols.). By ANTHONY TROLLOPE. Pocket Edition. Complete in 8 volumes. Price 2s. 6d. net each. G. Bell & Sons.

HOW TO IDENTIFY PERSIAN RUGS, by C. J. DELABERE MAY. "Can be recommended to everybody desirous of understanding the subject. It is seldom that a book of hints is as satisfactory."—Evening Standard. "A practical little book, lucidly written, and effectively illustrated."—Spectator. Price 6s. net. G. Bell & Sons.

THE WORLD OF SOUND, by PROFESSOR SIR WILLIAM BRAGG. "A most engaging volume."—Country Life. "Is," says the Athenæum, "packed with interesting and out-of-the-way observations, and, at the same time, the scientific principles involved are brought out in a clear and connected manner." Fully illustrated. Price 6s. net. G. Bell & Sons.

SOUTH AMERICA—THE LAND OF OPPORTUNITY: is surveyed from the commercial point of view in an able volume entitled THE STATES OF SOUTH AMERICA, by C. W. DOMVILLE FIFE. Packed with useful information and up-to-date statistics. Illustrated, and with maps. Price 15s. net. G. Bell & Sons.

BELL'S SOCIAL SERVICE LIBRARY

THE BOY IN INDUSTRY AND LEISURE, by THE REV. R. R. HYDE, Director of the Industrial Welfare Society, is, says The Times, "one of the most valuable books on social service among the young which has yet appeared." "THE BOY" is a manly book by one whose name is a household word in industrial circles."—Evening Standard. Price 6s. net. G. Bell & Sons.

"FASCINATING READING" . . . for all who care for other human beings" (Glasgow Herald) is to be found in "THE GIRL," by MISS K. C. DEWAR, a companion book to the above. "Intending workers could scarcely have a better preliminary study."—The Times. Price 6s. net. G. Bell & Sons.

THE MOTHER AND THE INFANT, by MISS E. V. ECKHARD, gives an account of the social aims of the Child Welfare Movement, and shows how voluntary workers and the Public Health Services can best co-operate. Price 6s. net.

[Everyone interested in this subject should also read Dr. Janet Lane-Claydon's brilliant study, "The Child Welfare Movement." 7s. net. It is, to quote The Woman's Leader, "packed with information and interest throughout," while, as The Yorkshire Post rightly says: "No worker in this field can speak with greater authority."] G. Bell & Sons.

THE SOCIAL WORKER, by C. R. ATTLEE, is, says The Times, "a singularly thoughtful and instructive study of a subject in which a widely interested public really needs well-considered guidance." The Scotsman describes it as "an instructive and encouraging sketch of the opportunities of social service that present themselves, and of the proper qualifications and training of a social worker." Price 6s. net. G. Bell & Sons.

THE FLIGHT OF THE GOEBEN AND BRESLAU.

By ADMIRAL SIR A. BERKELEY MILNE.

Truth:—"Opinions amongst reviewers appear to be divided about the wisdom of Admiral Milne in publishing his book. I think that on the whole the Admiral is right."

Morning Post:—"Sir Berkeley Milne's lucid narrative is of singular interest both to the student of naval warfare and to the public."

Yorkshire Post:—"As he was the Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean Fleet at that time Sir Berkeley Milne has a right to be heard."

Glasgow Herald:—"Admiral Milne, in our opinion, was fully justified in placing his version before the public. Besides, he has written a most vivid and interesting narrative, a thing in itself, well worth doing."

ECHOES OF THE EIGHTIES.

Leaves from the Diary of a Victorian Lady.

ANONYMOUS.

Observer:—"The lady who kept the diary had a good ear for a story... it must be a very well-informed person indeed who does not encounter some unfamiliar piquancies in her pages."

Morning Post:—"She is good-natured, ladylike, and self-restrained, and that is more than can be said for all the modern writers of reminiscences."

Times:—"The fact that the author has a wide circle of friends in the world of society and letters, and had apparently the habit of jotting down at once, things which they said to her makes this book worth dipping into."

Scotsman:—"The book is a compact mass of anecdotes. All of them are entertaining."

AT THE SUPREME WAR COUNCIL.

By CAPTAIN PETER E. WRIGHT.

In his double capacity of Assistant Secretary and Interpreter of the Supreme War Council in the period of its formation at the end of 1917, Captain Wright was admitted to the innermost secrets of the Allies, both political and military. He paints a vivid picture of the clash of circumstance and character that led to the almost fatal disaster of March, 1918. REPUTATIONS GO DOWN "LIKE NINE-PINS" IN THIS BOOK.

Great New Novel

WOMEN & CHILDREN.

8s. 6d. net.

The Observer says:—"This is the best novel that Mr. de Selincourt has yet published."

This is a novel which, while primarily a work of art, should be of absorbing interest to all who realise the inestimable importance of sexual psychology and the value of a proper and enlightened education in sexual matters.

Mr. de Selincourt thinks courageously and writes with distinction.
